
In the neon-lit twilight of the Twice Shy Peep Show strings are being pulled, but whose and by whom? A claustrophobic courtesan renders her voyeurs little more than marionettes and leaves them hanging on the edge of desire. In this sleazy den of frictional iniquity, once you have been bitten you will crave a little more.

The Twice Shy Peep Show is a short-form feast of immersive, interactive theatre starring a life-size Bunraku puppet, three puppeteers, a suitably seedy MC and a dark, disquieting soundtrack, all squeezed into a space little bigger than a garden shed. The piece, conceived by Zoie Kennedy with original music by Desmond O'Connor, is designed to thrill, disturb and challenge perceptions of what we desire and who holds the strings of power in erotic exchanges.
